Independent publisher, social scientist, author, medical journalist, and freelance activist in Berlin

Biographical Data

Born on September 3, 1950 in Calw (Black Forest), Germany.

1955, removal of the family to Fellbach near Stuttgart.

1957-1961, primary school in Fellbach.

1961-1969, secondary school in Fellbach. In 1969, university-entrance diploma.

1970, removal to Berlin (West).

1962-1977, working during school holidays and simultaneously at academic studies sporadically as a bicycle seller, book packer, bookseller, miniature golf groundskeeper, store keeper, and tool packer, among other jobs.

1971-1978, academic studies in social pedagogy at the College of Education of Berlin, the Technical University of Berlin at the Free University of Berlin. In 1978, degree as graduated pedagogue. In the UK, they refer to people who have completed a university program as “social pedagogues”. Diploma thesis: Möglichkeiten und Grenzen von Betroffenenbeteiligung (Chances and limits of user involvement), part D (together with Ursula Behler, Brigitte Deister, Ute Düring & Gunthart Gude): Determinanten und Kriterien sozialpädagogischer Strategiefindung bei Stadtsanierungsprojekten (Determinants and criteria of social pedagogic strategy finding in urban redevelopment projects), advisor: Prof. Dr. Christina Thürmer-Rohr, second advisor: Prof. Dr. Manfred Liebel, both College of Education, Faculty of Educational Science – Social Work & Social Pedagogy.

Biographic break: Displacement to the madhouse in 1977 without a court’s decision. The human rights violations I experienced there (massive offence against the right to bodily integrity and the right to protection of human dignity) as well as the degrading measures experienced after discharge (administration of toxic psychiatric drugs by community psychiatry, refusal of the informal right of self-determination in form of refusal of the right to have access to my own psychiatry records) led to my continuing individual and collective resistance against psychiatric arbitrariness since 1979.

Work and commitment

In 1980, co-founder of the Irren-Offensive (Lunatics Offensive), a self-help group of (ex-) users and survivors of psychiatry. 1984-1990, employed as a graduated social-pedagogue with this group and advised about psychiatric drugs and withdrawal. 1990/91, termination of membership.
